This course is an introduction to contemporary Mexican politics. The goals for this course are (1) to apply the analytical tools learned in this course to other countries or research areas and (2) to develop your analytical and writing skills. The plan of the course is divided in four sections. First, we will review of the history of the country since the Mexican revolution. Second, we will learn about the most important political institutions and parties in the country. Third, we will learn about the role of election in the democratic development of the country. Finally, we will discuss some of the most important challenges Mexico faces nowadays. Although helpful, no previous knowledge of Mexican politics is required.

Format
We will meet twice a week for the duration of the semester. There are assigned readings for each lecture, and students are expected to come to each class having read all the required material. Class lectures are not a substitute for the readings or vice versa. The material from lectures and readings will be complemented with film sessions and a collective blog for the course.

Course Requirements

Reading Exams: There will be a exam at the beginning of Wednesday session. Each exam will consist on two questions based on the readings assigned for the week. There will not be trick questions and the answers will be obvious for those who read the material. Exams missed due to absences or late arrival cannot be made up. When estimating your final grade, I will drop out your three lowest scores, and the average of your remaining scores is worth 40% of your final grade.

Blog posts: The blog for the course is located at http://politicsofmexico.tumblr.com. The purpose of the blog is to discuss current issues in Mexico that cannot be extensively discussed in class. Each student is required to post two op-eds during the semester. Each op-ed should focus to a contemporary problem or contingent event in Mexico and should demonstrate the student’s ability to apply readings and topics from the course. Posts should amount 1000 words. The schedule for posting and additional guidelines will be discussed the first day of class. Each op-ed is worth 22.5% of your final grade. You also need to submit the initial draft of your first post a week before it is due. This draft is worth 5% of your grade.

Participation: Class participation means that you are fully present during lectures, group presentations and other class activities. This entails offering relevant and informed insights, keeping competing conversations with classmates to a minimum, and refraining from use of electronic devices. Classroom discussion is meant to allow us to hear a variety of viewpoints, and this can only happen if we respect each other and our differences.

Final letter grades will be calculated in an absolute scale as follows: A (94-100\%), A- (90-93\%), B+ (87-89\%), B (84-86\%), B- (80-83\%), C+ (77-79\%), C (74-76\%), C- (70-73\%), D+ (67-69\%), D (64-66\%), D- (60-63\%), F (0-59\%).

Electronic Devices
Use of cell phones, laptops, or other electronic devices is not allowed during class. Using laptops in class has detrimental effects for students, and they distract others students around and myself. If you feel that your learning will be hampered by not having access to your laptop for note-taking or other legitimate purposes, please sit at the back row of the room. However, I reserve the right to deduct points from your participation without notice if you do use electronic devices to engage in distracting behavior during class time.

Deadlines and extensions
Unless very pressing (and fully documented) situations, extensions are not allowed. There are no make-up essays or quizzes.

Disabilities
The University of Houston System complies with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, pertaining to the provision of reasonable academic adjustments/auxiliary aids for students with a disability. In accordance with Section 504 and ADA guidelines, the University of Houston strives to provide reasonable academic adjustments/auxiliary aids to students who request and require them.

If you have a disability that requires special testing accommodations or other classroom modifications, you need to notify both me after you contacted the Center for Students with DisAbilities (CSD).

Counseling and Psychological Services
Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS) can help students who are having difficulties managing stress, adjusting to college, or feeling sad and hopeless. You can reach CAPS (http://www.uh.edu/caps) by calling 713-743-5454 during and after business hours for routine appointments or if you or someone you know is in crisis. No appointment is necessary for the “Let’s Talk” program, a drop-in consultation service at convenient locations and hours around campus.

Academic Integrity
Students enrolled in this course are expected to adhere to the honor pledge that will be provided the first day of class. There will be a zero tolerance policy for plagiarism in any of the required activities for this course, and any violation will be penalized in the terms cited by the UH’s Academic Dishonesty Policy. Violations include: cheating, fabrication, plagiarism, and complicity in academic dishonesty. Feel free to consult with me before submitting your essay if you have concerns about the correct way to reference the work of others.

Office Hours
Friday 2:30-3:30 p.m. at 429 Philip Guthrie Hoffman Hall. If you cannot make it at that time, please send me an e-mail to schedule a meeting outside those hours.

Teaching Assistant
Paul Johnson (pjohnson7@uh.edu). Office hours: Wednesday 10:00 a.m.-12:00 p.m. at 426 Philip Guthrie Hoffman Hall.

Readings
The course requires the following textbook:

The rest of the readings are available on Blackboard. Please let me know if you have any economic restriction that may prevent you from obtaining the course material.

Op-ed

An Op-ed is a brief essay in a newspaper or magazine that expresses the personal opinion of an independent author. Along this semester, you will write two Op-eds that will be posted in course blog. Each Op-ed should focus on an contingent issue related to Mexican politics. Posts should amount 1000 words. The submission schedule and additional guidelines will be discussed the first day of class.

Instructions:

• Choose an issue that you care about.
• Take seriously the challenge of adding something new to the public conversation, something you would like to have people read.
• Unfortunately, 1000 words are seldom enough to solve any world’s problem. Nevertheless, you can present a single point in a clear and persuasive way. The message you try to explain should be summarized in no more than two sentences.
• Hook the reader since the beginning getting to the point as fast as possible and persuading the reader that it is worth to spend more time reading your text.
• At the end of every paragraph you should tell readers why they should care about your point.
• Go beyond a simple analysis and propose a solution or recommendation.

Think about where you want to see it in print. As a suggestion, look for an op-ed you find interesting. Mentally annotate that editorial, looking for such aspects as an opening hook, placement of thesis statement, length of sentences, and the closing punch line. Consider the intended audience of the publication and the way in which your op-ed reaches that demographic. For excellent tips on writing in a clear and concise way for publishing take a look at The Economist’s style guide: http://www.economist.com/styleguide/introduction.
